Mura.

Mura is a revolutionary single-person work pod designed to bring privacy, focus, and comfort to the modern workplace.

Interchangeable wall panels allow for complete personalisation with melamine finishes, rich upholstery or a stylish blend of both. Creating a refined aesthetic that complements any environment.

Engineered for acoustic excellence, Mura achieves an average 36dB noise reduction, providing a calm, distraction-free workspace without disconnecting users from their surroundings.

Glazed panels maintain light and visibility, while optional seating, tables, and raised floors add comfort and definition. Adjustable LED light strips and built-in airflow ensure a consistently healthy, well-lit environment throughout the day.

Mura goes beyond comfort, it enhances productivity and well-being by reducing distractions, supporting focus, and offering a private retreat for deep work or calls.

The compact footprint helps optimise office space, easing pressure on traditional meeting rooms or open floor plans.

Sustainability is at the core of Mura with a design made from simple modular components, the pod is 99% recyclable and can be updated or reconfigured without a full re-manufacture. This longevity supports our take-back program and reduces waste, making Mura as responsible as it is refined.

With sleek lines, exceptional functionality, and an extensive choice of finishes, Mura transforms the way personal workspaces are experienced — a stylish, sustainable, and high-performing addition to any modern environment.

Design

From day one, we knew Mura had to be three things. Strong, stylish and most importantly bring strong acoustic absorbancy. So our designers set about for weeks of consistent research, figuring out how they could create something that met these criteria.

Construct

Months of R&D, revised designs and testing new materials and techniques lead us to a point where we could be proud of the structure, the components and the sustainability of what we had created, boasting a 99% recyclability for the range.

Finish

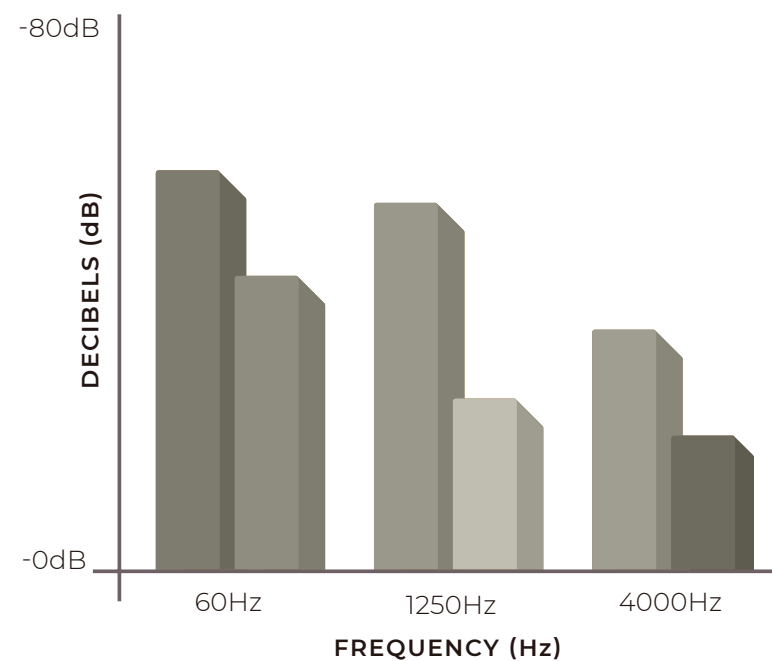

Mura is something special. All those months of research, development, testing and re-working came together to produce a workspace that is not only functional, but cozy and aesthetically remarkable.

36dB

Reduction

Mura features aren't just aesthetic. The sound reducing properties, breakout nature of the pods and ergonomic functionality all come together to enhance and elevate the quality and productivity of any working environment from universities, and study areas to libraries and offices.

Mura delivers a productivity boost by providing a distraction-free environment with reducing noise thus increasing focus. This, in turn, brings about a well-being increase by offering a comfortable seating option, fresh airflow, and lighting control to support healthier, happier teams. Further to these features, Mura also aids in space optimisation by reducing pressure on traditional offices making spaces more efficient.

Recyclability

A large part of the design process for Mura has been environmentally driven. Our strive for sustainability meant that we had to keep recyclability at its core. This lead us to very carefully selecting construction materials and methods that meant not only could we ensure recyclability, but we could also make that process as achievable as possible.

Six months of dedicated research and development across every team brought us an advanced pod system that only takes thirty minutes to construct. To reach that point, Mura goes through manufacturing in a total of thirteen hours as each team carefully does their part.
